The Taliban didn't want girls to go to school because they believed females should be separated from males. This makes me feel...because...

---

Q3. Why was Malala's father so keen for Malala to go to school?

---

Malala's father was keen for Malala to go to school because he believed that girls deserved the same education as boys.

---

Q4. How did Malala's mother feel about Malala's safety?

---

Malala's mother had a lot of fear about her safety, she was also very proud of her for standing up for her rights. To make sure Malala was safe her mother insisted that she take the bus to and from school even though the school wasn't very far from their home. Unfortunately, this didn't stop the Taliban from finding Malala in the end.
