Stamp at home

Stamp are a percussion group that use the body and ordinary objects to create rhythms.

Watch the following. It's one of my favourites.

Be inspired by this. In your kitchen, there'll be pots and pans and spoons. Wooden spoons will sound different to metal spoons, big pots and pans will sound differently to smaller ones. Adding water will change the timbre (the sound) again. You must ask permission before you start raiding the kitchen, filling pots with water etc - and avoid anything that will break like glass or pottery. Do not use knives!

Have a go at creating your own rhythms.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=G2uHSWQhyu8> - here is an example of how you might turn some kitchen objects into a drum kit.

I'd love to hear some of your ideas. Have fun - and please ask permission
