

Wednesday. Examples of introductions.

In Minecraft, you may have already seen large Wooden Mansions that are found in Dark Forest and Dark Forest Hills biomes. You can easily locate these structures with the help of woodland explorer maps, obtained by trading with cartographer villagers. Interestingly, the game also allows players to build their own mansions which can be easily customised as per their requirements. So, if you have been wondering how you can build a mansion of your own, here's how to do it.

INTRODUCTION

This really is our top favourite. It is always moist and crunchy. The cake needs to be still warm when the topping is added so that it absorbs the lemon syrup easily, leaving the sugar on top. Do allow the cake to cool a little though – if it is too hot the syrup will tend to run straight through.

All kids, young and old, love making paper airplanes. There always seems to be a competition to see who's airplane will fly the farthest. There also seems to be disappointment when those planes nosedive right at the start. The search for the way to make the best paper airplane is a popular past-time among kids and adults. There are ways to make your airplane one of the best.

We are going to look at the science – yes, science – that goes into making the best paper airplanes. From the best paper to use to the proper way to throw it. Then, we are going to go step-by-step through the ways to make some of these awesome airplanes. Get ready for some high-flying fun.

Build your own spacecraft!

How would you like to be the chief engineer for an important NASA mission? In this activity, you get to design the latest and greatest satellite. Your satellite could help study things happening on Earth, take pictures of planets in our solar system, keep an eye on our sun, or even find planets elsewhere in the universe!

One of the very best butterfly sites in Sussex, including numerous Adonis and chalkhill blues, dark-green fritillaries and marbled whites, lower numbers of dingy and grizzled skippers and small blue and the occasional brown hairstreak.

Explore the most historic hill on the South Downs

The walk is also very rich in flora, including bee orchids, field fleawort and round-headed rampion and has impressive areas of chalk lichen lawns.