

Snakes are legless reptiles that can be found all over the world. There about 3,600 different species — they aren't all dangerous, but some could really hurt you. 99% of bites in the Amazon come from the South American Lancehead or Fer-de-lance so it's important to know your snakes. If you're going to explore the rainforest, you also need to know how to avoid them and how to treat a snake bite if you're bitten. It could save your life.

Snakes are legless reptiles that can be found all over the world. There about 3,600 different species — they aren't all dangerous, but some could really hurt you. 99% of bites in the Amazon come from the South American Lancehead or Fer-de-lance so it's important to know your snakes. If you're going to explore the rainforest, you also need to know how to avoid them and how to treat a snake bite if you're bitten. It could save your life.

Snakes are legless reptiles that can be found all over the world. There about 3,600 different species — they aren't all dangerous, but some could really hurt you. 99% of bites in the Amazon come from the South American Lancehead or Fer-de-lance so it's important to know your snakes. If you're going to explore the rainforest, you also need to know how to avoid them and how to treat a snake bite if you're bitten. It could save your life.

Snakes are legless reptiles that can be found all over the world. There about 3,600 different species — they aren't all dangerous, but some could really hurt you. 99% of bites in the Amazon come from the South American Lancehead or Fer-de-lance so it's important to know your snakes. If you're going to explore the rainforest, you also need to know how to avoid them and how to treat a snake bite if you're bitten. It could save your life.

Snakes are legless reptiles that can be found all over the world. There about 3,600 different species — they aren't all dangerous, but some could really hurt you. 99% of bites in the Amazon come from the South American Lancehead or Fer-de-lance so it's important to know your snakes. If you're going to explore the rainforest, you also need to know how to avoid them and how to treat a snake bite if you're bitten. It could save your life.

Snakes are legless reptiles that can be found all over the world. There about 3,600 different species — they aren't all dangerous, but some could really hurt you. 99% of bites in the Amazon come from the South American Lancehead or Fer-de-lance so it's important to know your snakes. If you're going to explore the rainforest, you also need to know how to avoid them and how to treat a snake bite if you're bitten. It could save your life.