How would you feel if you were forbidden to eat those foods for the next month?

Does anyone have the right to forbid you from eating the things you choose? Would you obey this from anyone? Why/why not?

Do you know anyone that follows rules about what they eat?
Why do they do it?

WALT: to understand the importance of Passover to Jews

- Passover is one of the most important religious festivals in the Jewish calendar.
- It celebrates the freedom of the Jewish people from slavery in Egypt. (210 years).
- The celebrations last for seven or eight days, depending on where you live.
- During the celebration, the seder meal is eaten to remind Jews of their struggle for freedom.

Draw a seder plate and label the following food items on it with the description of why they are eaten at Passover.

A roasted hardboiled egg symbolises new life

Two types of bitter vegetables remind of the misery and slavery

Green vegetables are a reminder that Passover is a Spring festival, these are dipped into salt water to remember the sweat and tears of slavery.

Roasted bone to remember Pesach offerings that would be brought into the Holy Temple in Jerusalem.

Fruit and spices are mixed with red sweet wine. This represents freedom

Matza is flat bread and symbolises the yeastless bread that was eaten by the Hebrews after they were set free.

WALT: understand how Jews show God they value their special relationship with Him.

Match up the terms to the correct photograph.

The synagogue

Torah scrolls

Kashrut (food laws)

Passover (Pesach and the seder plate)

In your home learning journals, describe some of the ways Jews try to do as God asks and start to explain why they feel it is important to do so or each of the photographs above.

Example: Firstly, the Torah Scroll is important because...

Hint: you can look back at the videos on the previous pages if you're struggling to remember.
