WALT proofread and uplevel our Lesson 5 biographies.

So, in your Rosen biography, you looked at proofreading to spot errors and add punctuation that you may have missed.

Today, we will be doing the same, but also looking for ways to uplevel our work. e.g.- could we add parenthesis somewhere? Could you add a fronted adverbial? Could you use a pronoun instead of David or Walliams throughout?

Lesson 5

Today, you will be proofreading your work. You need to check the following:

- capital letters, including for proper nouns Aa
- commas for lists, fronted adverbials and relative clauses,
- brackets, dashes or commas to indicate parenthesis () -- ,,
- full stops.
- apostrophes for contractions and possession
- question marks/exclamation marks ?!
- inverted commas for quotations " "

Lesson 5

How can we proofread this writing?

Class model – focus on adding in punctuation – could we also uplevel somewhere?

Now it's your turn!

Use your success criteria to ensure you check each element of the proofreading process.

Try to remember to look for places where you can uplevel your work. Use an M, as I did in the example a moment ago, and add it to your right hand page as you usually would in class.
