

NASTY WRITING!

Lesson 5

What is a conjunction?

Conjunctions are joining words that link sentences together.

Peter had a terrible cold.
He still went to school.

Adding a conjunction helps create fluency within our work.

Peter had a terrible cold
but he still went to school.

Lesson 5

NASTY WRITING!

Example: Peter had a terrible cold but he still went to school.

Change these two sentences into one sentence connected by a conjunction.

I could eat some pizza. I could eat some pasta.

Megan likes the rain. She prefers the snow.

Extension: Can you write your own sentences with conjunctions?

We've focused on coordinating conjunctions, but could you use some subordinating conjunctions too?
